HALL OF FAME

JOAN HORNE (PRIESTMAN)

INTERNATIONAL CAREER : 1952 - 1965

INTERNATIONAL CAPS : 43

POSITION : MULTIPLE

When asked about Irish hockey legends, men or women, the name of Joan Horne is not far from most people's lips. She is most famous for her involvement in two landmarks in Irish hockey - Ireland's memorable win over the 'auld enemy' England in 1962, where she captained the side, and Ireland's hosting of the 1994 Waterford Crystal Women's Hockey World Cup, in which she was hugely instrumental and headed the organising committee. A hugely versatile player, Joan played in all positions during her career, except in goal! She was one of only three Irish players selected for the combined Great Britain and Ireland team that toured the USA in 1965 and captained the Irish team that beat Holland in 1965.
